

The sub-department has a student research club.

The main student research fields are as follows :

- The condition of bone metabolism in children;
- Emergency conditions in pediatrics, patient management algorithms;
- Organization and support of natural feeding;
- Pharmacotherapy in pediatrics.

In addition to presenting scientific reports and reviewing the literature, each meeting features a clinical case study from real practice.

Student research

